COORDINATORS 2005

Just like these stocks, you can't get away from Waterwatch, Greg!

Coordinator Profile

Greg Gilbert 11 Years in Waterwatch

Greg Gilbert has been involved with Waterwatch since 1994, firstly as a volunteer water monitor and then becoming the Sale Region facilitator for West Gippsland in December 1996.

Greg has devotedly monitored local waterways, including Heart and Dowds' Morass, since that time. He has taught nearly an entire generation of local school children about catchment and river health. Qualified in Chemistry and Natural Resource Management, Greg is passionate about water testing and data analysis, making him a valuable resource for Waterwatchers near and far. Greg is also the "paparazzi" of West Gippsland Waterwatch - no-one is safe from his camera - he has captured some great images over the years.

Outside of Waterwatch, Greg operates the Golden Beach

Hog Deer checking station and is a long term member of Landcare. Greg is also a keen beekeeper and loves tinkering about his self-built house at Golden Beach.

The Waterwatch Victoria Program thanks you, Greg, for your contribution. Your dedication and energy have been much appreciated!

Coordinator Profile
Jeanie Clark
10 Years in Waterwatch

In 2005, Waterwatch Victoria recognised Jeanie Clark for her 10 year contribution to the Waterwatch program.

Jeanie joined the Wimmera Waterwatch program in January 1995, and brought to the program diverse teaching skills. Since that time, she has integrated participatory education into all aspects of the Waterwatch program and the community at both a local and regional level. Despite water being relatively scarce in the Wimmera, Jeanie has always focussed upon regional examples and issues, including stormwater, farm water and ground water-surface water interactions. Jeanie believes Waterwatch activities can provide the theme or topic for almost any curriculum activity, and has developed many education resources and initiatives to support teachers, students and community groups.

Jeanie values grass-roots participation and sees her relationship to monitors as critical to the success of the program. Outside of Waterwatch, Jeanie is heavily involved in home schooling and the Uniting Church of Warracknabeal.

Waterwatch Victoria thanks you Jeanie for your contribution and commitment to the Waterwatch program.
